Hello delegates!

My name is Anna Barrett and I'll be your Session I Director for the French Cabinet! I am currently both a junior and first semester master's degree student studying International Affairs and Political Science at the George Washington University, and I've recently completed a semester abroad at Sciences Po in Paris.

I'm originally from East Brunswick, New Jersey, and have been doing model UN since high school. I am a member of George Washington University's Model UN Travel Team, where I specialize in crisis committees. I have also served as chair, crisis director, and undersecretary-general at GW's middle school, high school, and collegiate conference. I was a delegate at NHSMUN my Junior year of high school, and later returned as an assistant director and director. This is my third year here at NHSMUN!

Outside of Model UN, I work at a nonprofit organization that provides educational programming in Southeast Washington, DC, and love baking, knitting, and hiking. By the time you read this, I'll be back from four months of living in Paris, so ask me all about studying abroad!

Model UN is such an amazing opportunity to form connections, learn to work together to achieve a common goal, and dive deep into some of our world's most important issues. I encourage you to enjoy your time at NHSMUN and take this chance to be creative, collaborate, and most importantly have fun!

Welcome to NHSMUN,

Anna Barrett

Hello delegates,

My name is Bruna Nobre, and I'm from Porto Alegre, a city in the south of Brazil. I'm currently in my fourth semester of International Relations, a degree I absolutely love. Within my major, one of the areas I enjoy studying the most is national defense and security, which is also one of the reasons why I'm so excited to be part of this committee.

Last year, I was an Assistant Director for the Commission on the Status of Women (CSW) at NHSMUN in ECOSOC, and now I'm back as a Director of Specials in the French Cabinet. I'm really excited to meet all of you at the conference and, of course, to see what you come up with for the future of France. A fun fact about me is that, just two weeks after NHSMUN, I'll be traveling around Europe for an entire month to visit the EU institutions and learn more about European politics. So, honestly, I could not be more excited about this committee and the chance to explore some of these topics with you.

Outside of NHSMUN, I've participated in dozens of Model UN conferences. Since starting college, though, I've become much more interested in staffing and chairing conferences. One of my favorite things about MUN is seeing delegates develop throughout the conference and get really into a topic they might not have cared about before. It also takes me back to when I was a delegate in high school, so enjoy every second of it. Trust me, those years go by much faster than you can imagine.

Outside of MUN and college, I work at one of Europe's biggest technology companies in User Experience and Product Success. Corporate life can be boring, I know, but I actually really enjoy my job! It gives me the flexibility to study, travel, and still have time for the things I love. When I'm not studying, working, or doing MUN, you'll probably find me running, hiking, or baking something way too sweet. One of my biggest dreams is to do the Everest Base Camp Trek someday, so if you have any good hiking recommendations, come talk to me!

I'm really looking forward to meeting all of you at NHSMUN. More than anything, I hope you have an amazing conference, make some great memories, and, of course, have the most fun possible. See you all soon!

Regards,

Bruna Nobre
